

Last Minute Gift Ideas

Here are eight tech gift ideas for those (like me) who wait until the last few days of the season and have no idea what to get for friends and family.
By Gregg Ellman | @greggellman

DreamScience sleep companion $78.33 | Dreamscience.oregonscientific.com

The DreamScience from Oregon Scientific sleeps at your side to help you get a great night's sleep. The brainwave-oriented sleep companion has 20 built-in nature-themed soundscapes, six soft glowing mood lights for relaxation when you go to sleep. If you'd prefer something different, just plug in your own music. Settings let the soothing sounds gradually reduce in volume and slow in rhythm to help you achieve the needed rest and relaxation. An LCD displays the time and sound track.

BlueSYNC RGD Speaker $29 | Gogroove.com

The BlueSYNC RGD is a rugged water-resistant (IPX4) Bluetooth speaker. That doesn't mean you have to use it in the water; it works great when it's dry.

It has a metal hang hook to attach it to your belt loop or backpack, is wrapped with thick silicone protection for durability, charges via USB and measures 7.75 x 2.87 x 2.5-inches.

iACCESS microSD reader $49.99 | Leefco.com

The iACCESS from Leef could be the smallest but by far the coolest gift you'll give.

It holds a microSD memory card and has an iOS lightning connection for a direct connection to transfer music, photos or videos on to an iPhone or iPad. With the direct connection it works flawlessly without the need of WiFi, cables or Bluetooth, it just connects and loads.

Although a microSD card is not included, a quick search of Amazon has 32GB microSD card for just $10.95.

DOK CR09 Charger $34.99 | Easy-doks.com

The DOK CR09 is a dual-charger nightstand station that can charge two devices simultaneously and wakes you with an alarm clock.

A universal dock can be used for Android, Apple, smartphones, tablets, GoPro cameras or just about any USB charging device. But it doesn't end there; there's an FM radio, built-in speaker, a built-in surge protector and it runs on AC or two AAA batteries.

BlendMate personal blender $19.99 | Gourmia.com

Gourmia's BlendMate Smoothie Plus personal blender is a great device to help get started on those New Year's resolutions.

It works with hard and soft foods with a one-button operation and has removable parts, which make it simple to clean. There's also a travel grab-and-go bottle and sealable lid included.

100 Inkjet greeting cards $41.99 | Redriverpaper.com/cardshop

Red River's inkjet greeting cards ensure you have a card with every gift and for less than $1 per card (factoring in the costs of the envelope, ink and paper)

Each card is pre-scored for easy folding and available in a variety of surfaces including glossy, fine art, linen, matte and specialty textured papers. You can choose 4x6, 5x7 or 4x9-inch sized cards and colorful translucent envelopes are available for purchase.

Jabra Sport Pace earbuds $89.99 | Jabra.com

The Jabra Sport Pace is one-stop shopping for earbud headphones.

They work great for everyday use with clear/crisp stereo sound, are wireless (Bluetooth), have a free training management app and are sweat, rain, dust, sand and weather resistant.

You'll get about five hours of use before a quick charge is needed and it's built with a reflective neck cord for night time use.

Limitless keyboard $79.99 | Zagg.com

ZAGG's limitless keyboard is perfectly named.

It's a full-sized keyboard but works with computers, smartphones, tablets with Apple iOS, Android, Mac OS X and Windows operating systems. What makes it great is you can sync it wirelessly with up to three devices and toggle between them, depending on what you want to use.

It comes in seven colors, has a built-in cradle to get the right viewing angle and has backlit keys.

